Sheltered From Storm in Florida Court House

Men, women and children crowd into the County Court House building at West Palm Beach to find shelter from the screaming tropical hurricane which lashed Florida's Gold Coast today, striking in the area between Palm Beach and Miami. Thousands sought refuge in other public buildings, schools and hotels, while thousands of other residents were evacuated inland. The storm, possibly the worst since 1928, found the coast battered down for the full force of the hurricane.

Hurricane Rips Florida Coast, 100-Mile Winds Sweep Inland

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—A screaming tropical hurricane, with winds ranging upward of 100 miles per hour, lashed Florida's Gold Coast today and moved slowly to bring its crushing center across the coast between Miami and Palm Beach shortly after noon. Many thousands fled the appalling power of the blow, seeking refuge in public buildings, schools and hotels.

At 8:45 a. m. the storm was placed "close to the coast and still moving in a westerly direction." It appeared to be centered 60 miles east of Delray Beach.

It's Here--Good Luck, Says Weatherman

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—The Weather Bureau issued the following hurricane bulletin at 9:45 a. m.:

The hurricane is now bearing in close to the coast and still moving in a westerly direction. The center is expected to cross the coast line between Miami and Palm Beach this afternoon.

Winds are now up to hurricane force at a number of places along the coast and will continue to increase. This hurricane according to all reports received is a very severe one and covers a rather wide area.

We trust that you have made all necessary preparations to protect property and that you will now seek a safe place in a good building away from the waterfront, and await the passage of the storm. Some property will be damaged and destroyed but your forecasters sincerely hope that no one will be injured or killed. Let us all cooperate to make this a hurricane without casualties.

The calm central area of the hurricane will be felt over a 25 miles stretch along the coast and if you happen to be in this area where the winds dies down suddenly, please remember that the worst of the storm is yet to come when the other side reaches you in a short time.

Everybody over south Florida should exercise all precautions until this hurricane passes.

Predict Hurricane Certain to Skip Hub

Boston and New England were girded for any hurricane emergency today but officials at the Weather Bureau declared all preparations would go for naught save as preparedness practice.

Asked what chances New England has of getting a real taste of the hurricane now sweeping on the Florida coast, a weather bureau spokesman said:

"Not a chance at all." "When a reporter persisted, 'Is it a 100 to 1 shot?'" the spokesman replied, "The chances are 10 times greater than that."

He explained the hurricane and accompanying 100-mile gales now are sweeping directly onto the south Florida coast—never veering since they first started to roar—and are virtually certain to tear straight across Florida to the south and sweep into the Gulf of Mexico.

MAY GET NORTHEASTER

Officials further stated that New England may get a northeast storm, but even that will not arrive until late Friday, Saturday or possibly Sunday.

Nevertheless, watchful officials, mindful of the great damage caused by the 1938 hurricane, had completed arrangements for any emergency.

The Red Cross set up field experts and readied relief stations along the Massachusetts and Rhode Island seacoasts.

The great blow, possibly the worst since 1928, when 2500 perished and $75,000,000 damage was inflicted, piled up the waters of Lake Okechobee behind Palm Beach. Residents prayed the dikes would hold.

The rich, populous lower east coast was battered down for full force of the hurricane, but the state's $100,000,000 citrus crop was in danger.

At 9:30 the West Palm Beach area had sustained 82-mile winds and with gusts up to 110 miles an hour.

Palm Beach, the winter playground of the world's rich, was virtually cut off from the outside, and communication lines were reported down throughout the area.

The barometer plummeted in Miami, and weather-wise residents in the target area huddled in public shelters and in reinforced buildings. Heaviest force was expected near Palm Beach, where winds up to 160 miles per hour may lash in from the sea.

NEAR FT. LAUDERDALE

The first winds of the storm screamed across Hillsboro Light, on the east Florida coast, near Fort Lauderdale. A howling blast registered 90 miles an hour as it rushed past the exposed lighthouse.

Melbourne registered 60-mile full gales, and the Weather Bureau said wind velocities between Palm Beach and Miami, and a bit to the north and south of these cities, could be expected to increase rapidly until full hurricane winds are reached.

At 7:45 a. m. the hurricane was centered about 80 miles east of Delray Beach, still moving westward at about 8 to 10 miles per hour and attended by winds well over 100 miles per hour.

Hurricane warnings flew over Florida from north of the Keys to the Titusville-Tampa line and storm warnings elsewhere over the peninsula from Jacksonville to Cedar Keys.

STORM PROTECTION

The storm was expected to strike the mainland between Fort Lauderdale and Pompano around noon.

HURRICANE HITS—The Atlantic hurricane screamed into Florida (outline arrow) between Palm Beach and Miami today, hitting near Ft. Lauderdale, while the area between Miami and Titusville (shaded) was under hurricane alert. Warnings were up between Titusville and Jacksonville (A), between Miami and the Keys (B), and the sector from Titusville to Tampa, on the west coast (C), as alerted. At Melbourne (D) a 60-mile gale was raging.

Before the mighty winds wheel around their center to strike Miami, they will pass overland.

Their force drops off sharply under these circumstances, but they still contain a mighty wallop. Miami is in for no picnic. Gusty gales swept the city, becoming stronger and stronger.

The tap-tap-tap of hammers, nailing up storm protection over glass windows, echoed through the night. At times the howl of the gale drowned out the sound of the hammers.

Some of the wind blasts are dry. Others sting the face with raindrops that fly like bullets. Already a few trees have toppled. The green glare of short circuited wires flash up occasionally.

AILING EVACUEES

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17 (INS) — Communications between the Miami Weather Bureau and other stations on the Department's hurricane teletype circuit were disrupted today by the hurricane off the Florida coast.

Just before it was cut off the Miami Bureau asked New Orleans forecasters to take over in charting the storm.

Blue Cross Affairs In '46 Cailed Chaotic

Grand Jury Bypassed, Nab 3 in Fire Suit

In a precedent-smashing action, State Police today bypassed Essex County grand jury and arrested three Lynn men on warrants obtained in municipal court here, charging them with conspiracy stemming from a fire claim.

The claim was allegedly presented to an insurance company by Michael Shalek, Brookline, a public adjuster, for whom a warrant was also issued.

The Lynn men are Benny Bookser, Mall st., owner of a hardware store on the first floor of a three-story business and tenement block at Summer and Vine sts., Lynn, where a general alarm fire caused considerable damage Feb. 12; John W. Crocker, 51, Newhall st., a carpenter, and Roland E. Lee, 39, an electrical contractor.

Lynn police, who were not consulted in the State Police move, said the warrants read "conspiracy to steal money and the value of $10,000."

The warrant for Shalek charges him with conspiracy and presenting a false claim to the insurance company, as yet unidentified. All four warrants were sworn out by Daniel A. Murphy, superintendent of State Police detectives in the State Fire Marshal's office.

He went to municipal court when the Essex County grand jury tabled action on an indictment. The court issued the warrants in view of the fact the fire claim was filed in Suffolk County. State fire marshal investigators said the blaze apparently started in the cellar under Bookser's store but the cause remained officially unknown.

The blaze, flaming for five hours, drove 75 occupants, many of them old-age pensioners, became so delinquent that many bills "as far back as August, 1945, had not been collected."

Those statements were contained in the regular triennial report made public today by the State Department of Insurance. The report, drawn up by the department's examiners and presented to Insurance Comr. F. J. Harrington, emphasized that most of corrected on their suggestions.

Disbursements for hospitalization of subscribers in 1946 totaled $10,373,780, the report revealed, while salaries for executives and employees were $1,269,657.

"When the examiners made entry (last year)," the report said, "a chaotic condition existed in some departments. The book-keeping was not up to date and the billing department was months behind in its work."

At a public hearing still being held before the legislative committee on insurance, Harrington said today there was "nothing wrong with the Blue Cross that can't be cured."

"I don't want to make it insolvent," he added, "or take the matter to the Supreme Court, because I believe the directors can straighten things out."

Truman Ship Set To Outrun Storm

ABOARD USS MISSOURI, Sept. 17 (AP)—Officers of this battleship bringing President Truman home from Brazil said today they were prepared to take "evasive action" if necessary to avoid a hurricane off the coast of Florida.

The Missouri was around 900 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., and appeared unlikely to approach within several hundred miles of the storm center. If a change of course should become necessary to avoid the hurricane's path, the battleship could easily outrun it.

The Missouri is scheduled to debark the presidential party Friday at Norfolk, Va., and Mr. Truman plans to be back in the White House Saturday.

Marine Vet, Family of 3, Live in Auto

A 29-year-old Merchant Marine veteran, who risked Nazi submarines for more than three years, has been living in a sedan with his frail wife and two of their three small children on Boston streets for two weeks, unable to obtain help from the Housing Authority, it was disclosed today.

The homeless ones, who have parked throughout the nights in Roxbury, Back Bay and Somerville streets, are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grant, Anne, 4, and Rita, 3. Claire, the baby, is being cared for by a relative who has no more room. Mrs. Grant is to give birth to another child.

The father, a trailer truck driver for the P. T. Burke Co., Waltham, has to use the car in connection with his employment at a Waltham moving company. His wife and the two children live in playgrounds during pleasant weather. They have found refuge in the pews of the Mission Church on rainy days.

"I'm almost worn out with working, house-hunting and worrying," the father said. "I earn a living. I have money to rent a home. We search for one after work and Sundays. We are willing to live anywhere."

"They told me at the Housing Authority they had a four-room apartment but we were five and that was too many."

RECORDS CHECKED

His wife said: "I have gone to the Housing Authority again and again. Surely we could live in a four-room place. They told me they would have to check to see if the children were really mine. They called City Hall and the Lyngin Hospital."

"They asked me why my husband was not a 'veteran,' and I told them about his years in the Merchant Marine. He was turned down by the other services because of his eyes."

"Then," Mrs. Grant continued, "they told me their records showed one of our children was a boy, so doubling up in the four-room apartment was out of the question. I told them our three children were all girls, but they insisted their records must be right."

The one bright star on the Grant family's desolate horizon has been Mrs. Margaret Sentner of Worthington st., Mission Hill, operator of a rooming house.

Without knowing her, Mrs. Grant knocked on her door one day and asked if she might heat some milk for the baby. Mrs. Sentner took them in. She gave over her bedroom to the Grant family that night and they knew the luxury of a roof over their heads.

Then the beset family went their way again. This morning, at 4 a. m., Mrs. Sentner was awakened by a child crying outside. She saw the sedan and went out. The Grants had parked their car in the neighborhood where they discovered friendliness. Mrs. Sentner took them in again. She made coffee for the parents and gave milk to the children.

Grant, who spends his days moving other families into homes, went to work this morning as usual.

Dancer's Cuba Trial May Be Postponed

By JAMES RUSSELL

HAVANA, Sept. 17 (INS)—Patricia Schmidt, exotic nightclub dancer from Toledo, O., went on trial here today on charges of slaying her lover, Chicago Atty. John Lester Mee.

As soon as court convened, however, the private prosecutor requested postponement on grounds of illness.

The tribunal is expected to agree to the postponement request and a new trial date may be set tomorrow.

Miss Schmidt, who admitted firing the fatal bullet into the neck of Mee aboard the latter's yacht in Havana harbor last April, said:

"I actually feel that I am innocent and I believe I have enough points in my favor to merit acquittal."

In her appearance before three Cuban judges in the tiny Audencia courtroom, the dancer, known professionally as Satira, will plead that she was acting in self-defense.

Patricia declared that if she wins acquittal she will resume her dancing career. During the five months she has been imprisoned, she has received numerous offers from New York and Chicago nightclubs for engagements.

A postponement was foreseen when Gustavo Reno, private prosecutor acting on behalf of Mee's parents, declared he would ask for a suspension of the trial. Reno decided to bring in two more attorneys to assist him. He named Orlando Dickinson and Felipe Gonzales Sarrafin.

The move was said to have been taken to provide a continuance of the prosecution in event anything happens to one or another of the attorneys. Reno said he has received telephone threats.

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (INS)—Two American soldiers who died by drowning were among 2949 casualties listed tonight in latest reports from areas devastated by typhoons and floods that struck two of Japan's islands, Honshu and Hokkaido.

Many Americans and other Allied personnel were marooned by a typhoon-precipitated deluge that swept the north and central parts of Honshu, the main Japanese island, and encroached upon the Tokyo area itself.

Constitution Day Arouses Boston's Patriotic Fervor

With patriotic programs of every kind, Boston today joined the rest of the nation in a truly great observance of the 160th anniversary of the United States Constitution.

The anniversary opened with a flag-raising by sailors and Marines aboard the historic frigate Constitution at Boston Navy Yard, where open house was held for thousands of visitors.

More than 130,000 public and parochial school children of the city met in assembly halls to hear once more the familiar but stirring story of our Constitution and receive a copy of "Our Constitution," written by Benjamin de Casseres and originally published in the Boston American.

Public school observances were sponsored by Supt. of Schools Arthur L. Gould, while the Rev. Cornelius T. H. Sherlock, diocesan director, guided the parochial school celebrations.

An afternoon program will be a veterans' tribute to the Constitution, its authors and signers, broadcast over WEEI from 3:35 to 3:45, and carrying a patriotic message from Police Chief James F. O'Neil of Manchester, recently-elected national commander of the American Legion.

The official Boston program will take place on Boston Common to-night, from 7:30 to 9:30, with a fireworks display to follow on the ball field of the Common and a demonstration of Army anti-aircraft searchlights under direction of Maj. Douglas McKillop of the First Service Command recruiting division.

Mayor John B. Hynes will be master of ceremonies for the program at Parkman Bandstand, arranged by Peter Clougherty, acting municipal director of public celebrations.

Until 8 o'clock there will be a band concert and then Very Rev. Daniel J. Donovan of St. James Church, diocesan director of the Holy Name Society, will give the invocation.

Miss Marion Mulhall, noted Boston soprano, will sing "God Bless America," after which there will be band selections. The preamble of the Constitution will be read by Cyrus Del Vecchio of Public Latin School, winner of the 1947 Hearst Newspaper Oratorical Competition.

Foyer will be offered by Rabbi Walter S. Wurtzburger of Temple Chai Odom, Dorchester, followed by addresses by Rear Adm. Morton L. Deyo, commandant of the First Naval District, and Maj. Gen. Frank H. Keating, head of the First Service Command.

Band selections will precede a message from Legion Comdr. O'Neil and addresses by Gov. Bradford and Mayor Hynes. Benediction will be pronounced by a representative of Bishop Norman E. Nash and the exercises will close with singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

CONSTITUTION DAY EVENTS

8 a. m.—Flag raising exercises aboard USS Constitution at the Navy Yard.

Marshall Blasts Reds, Urges UN Unite to End Veto Abuse

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—In a speech bristling with censure of Russia, Sec. Marshall challenged the United Nations today to make a supreme effort to break the world's "deepening political and economic crisis" and save Greece from the attacks of its Balkan Communist neighbors.

With undiplomatic bluntness, Marshall accused Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria of hostile and aggressive acts against Greece, told how three Russian vetoes had blocked Security Council action to protect the country, then flung this sharp warning to the 55-nation UN Assembly.

"This Assembly cannot stand by as a mere spectator while a member of the United Nations is endangered by attacks from abroad. If the United Nations should fail to protect the integrity of one small state, the security of all small states would be placed in jeopardy."

Marshall laid before the Assembly a program dramatically reversing American policy on the veto issue and demanding the Assembly set up its own full-time security committee to backstop the veto-ridden Security Council.

LIBERALIZATION OF VETO

He announced the United States now favors drastic liberalization of the veto by eliminating it entirely from all security decisions on pacific settlements of international disputes. The veto could then be used only on issues involving forceful action against aggressors.

He also called for immediate creation by the Assembly of a Greek border commission—which Russia had vetoed in the Security Council; threw the Russian-American deadlock on Korea into the Assembly; asked an Assembly solution for Palestine; demanded that Russia come to terms on atomic energy control and called for vigorous planning of arms regulations.

Marshall's address evidently marked the opening of an American diplomatic offensive against Russia in the United Nations and stressed the new American policy that when Russia hamstringing the Security Council with veto votes the General Assembly must take over.

For that purpose he would have the Assembly's proposed security committee in constant session, and would give it a membership of 55 members like the Assembly itself.

PLEA FOR RESTRAINT

Then with a plea to the great nations to use their power and privilege with restraint, Marshall warned grimly:

"The United Nations will never endure if there is insistence on privilege to the point of frustration of the collective will."

The security committee, Marshall said, should start now as an interim agency and the Assembly could think about making it permanent next year. It would not conflict with the Security Council, he said, but would "strengthen the machinery for peaceful settlement and place the responsibility for such settlement broadly upon all the members of the United Nations."

Kennedy's Battle To Curb Prices Told U. S. Quiz

Edward Fresbrey, president of Kennedy's, Inc., told the congressional subcommittee investigating New England's high cost of living today that any reductions in cost of men's clothing must start with manufacturers and go backward to the raw material itself.

Fresbrey, speaking on the second day of the three-day Boston session of the committee, declared his company had been reducing its merchandise markup as unit costs advanced.

"During the period of price control," he said, "a substantial portion of the merchandise sold was at prices lower than OPA ceilings.

"Since removal of price controls our company has further reduced its merchandise markup. The result is that in the first six months of the current year the company's average markup was the smallest in its history."

PROFIT NEGLIGIBLE

Fresbrey said that if the net profit being made by his company at the present time was sacrificed entirely, it would have no appreciable effect on present retail prices.

"If for the first six months of the current year our office had received no operating profit," he said, "the retail price of an article selling for $1 could have been reduced only a fraction of 1 per cent without affecting the company's net profit."

"On the other hand, reduction of five cents in the unit cost to us of an article selling for $1 would generally result in reducing the retail price to 92 cents."

CAN'T CUT EXPENSES

He said that, despite constant study, his company found it impossible to reduce operating expenses materially, which would be necessary to cut retail prices.

"Based on our own experience and information of current operations of other retailers," he said, "it is apparent that retail reductions in men's wear must start below the retail level and follow down through the various manufacturing processes to the raw material itself."

Frederick Steele, executive secretary of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers Ass'n., was the first speaker called after the day's session was opened by Sen. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, filling in for Sen. Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont, who left yesterday for a Chicago speaking engagement.

SHORTAGES BLAMED

Steele declared that in the current price skyrocketing the nation's greatest weakness was in shortages being kept as shortages.

"If you are going to keep on exporting—cotton, for instance—you are going to keep on creating and maintaining shortages," he said.

He cited figures showing that 738,000,000 yards of cotton goods had been exported last year, compared with 621,000,000 yards in 1944.

Steele said he did not have figures to show what proportion of the nation's total production the 738,000,000 yards represented.

"We're here to get facts and figures," snapped Sen. Hoyer, a committee member. "We're not here to listen to carterhouse conversations."

Steele explained that he had not brought along a brief, as he did not know what the committee would require. However, he said, cotton textile organization statistics would have the information.

ASKS WAREHOUSE CHECK

Steele said that it was his opinion that much cotton textile goods were being kept off counters. He suggested the committee should check textile warehouses to see how much material was being kept in storage to maintain current high prices.

Another morning speaker, Cameron S. Thompson, vice-president of the Jordan Marsh Co., said his store's markups for the first 6 months of 1947 were the lowest in the past 18 years. Net profits of most retailers last

Saugus Health Case Pair Freed

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Little, High St., Saugus, were "indiscreet," but were not guilty of violating a Saugus board of health regulation when they took their son, Ledger, 10, on a trip to Maine last July when he was suspected of having diphtheria. Judge Ralph W. Reeve ruled today in Lynn district court.

The parents were brought to court on complaint of John Spencer, health agent. Testimony disclosed a doctor had advised them not to move the boy. While the family was absent on a weekend visit to aine, a report on an examination of cultures disclosed their son definitely was suffering from diphtheria.

Triangle Druggist Guilty, Wife And Doctor Fined $300 Each

A surprise plea of guilty by Robert F. Danahy, Stoughton druggist, to indictments charging attempted extortion and larceny of more than $100 from Dr. Patrick C. Ferrara, Stoughton physician, abruptly halted his trial in Dedham Superior court today and wrote finis to a tangled triangle of love and money.

Danahy was placed on probation for one year, y Chief Justice John P. Higgins. J. Allen Weill, 33, of Neponset st., Canton, was a co-defendant with Danahy, but charges against him were not pressed at the request of Asst. Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley.

At the same time the other principals in the involved case, Dr. Ferrara and Danahy's wife, Frances, mother of a 19-month-old child, were fined $300 each on charges of adultery.

NO DEFENSE OFFERED

The doctor and the druggist's wife were found guilty on the morals count yesterday. Neither offered any defense when the government produced a secret indictment charging them with illicit relations.

Earlier, the Stoughton physician had played the role of defendant and was found not guilty by a jury on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Danahy.

Danahy's sudden plea of guilty to attempted extortion and larceny from the doctor came at the outset of the second day of testimony in the snarled case.

As the first witness, Dr. Ferrara testified Danahy and his wife visited the Ferrara home the night of April 14, demanded $10,000 and threatened that unless the doctor paid for beating her, they would "ruin my reputation and smear my name all over the newspapers."

SEIZED MONEY

On the next day, the doctor continued, he told Danahy that because of prior extortions he wanted from Danahy a letter stating he would make no further demands. Danahy went away, Ferrara said, but returned later in the afternoon and signed an agreement, though not before demanding to see the $2000.

Dr. Ferrara said that once the agreement was in his hands, he seized the $2000 on his desk and shoved it into a drawer with the remark:

"That's the last time you'll extort money from me."

At which Danahy jumped him, the doctor said, seizing him by the throat and kicking him in the groin. The glass suddenly shattered in the door and Weill, according to the doctor, stood outside and cried through the gap:

"If you don't give him the money, I'll kill you. I'll shoot if you don't open the door."

Dr. Ferrara said his wife opened the door and Weill rushed in and joined the fight, which became a free-for-all, ending only when Mrs. Ferrara hastily retrieved the money and handed it to Danahy.

Introduced into evidence was an agreement signed with Danahy's name under date of April 15, penned on the doctor's stationery.

NEW LOOK VERSUS THE BLUE LOOK

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—A leading corset manufacturer today cautioned women to be careful lest the fashionable "new look" give them a "blue look" that accompanies gasping for air.

Adoption of "nineteenth century torture devices" as undergarments, Walter H. Lowy, vice-president of the Formfit Co., said, would threaten women with "the greatest fashion hoax since the gay 90's."

The "new look" he added, "plans to popularize the hour-glass figure and encase women in waist-pinchers corsets that were proved ruinous to health 40 years ago."

"Most women—and men—believe in curves and indented waistlines for the female figure," Lowy declared, "but they want something new, something better—not something grandmother discarded."

Gollum Tells Court Overell Ordered Dynamite Bought

SANTA ANA, Cal., Sept. 17 (AP)—George (Bud) Gollum was called back to the witness stand today to resume giving his answer to the state's charges that he and his sweetheart, Beulah Louise Overell, murdered the girl's parents, wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell.

Taft Views

Boos as Boosts

EN ROUTE TO SAN DIEGO With Taft, Sept. 17 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R) of Ohio traveled south today for an aerial look at the Colorado river basin, leaving behind in Los Angeles the impression that jeering union picketers may go far toward projecting him actively into the race for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

Introduced before a Republican gathering as possibly "the best qualified man in the U. S. for president," Taft indicated he thought CIO and AFL pickets who booed his entrance into the hall might have lifted his political prospects.

Unequivocally the 18-year-old Beulah, sole heir to her parents' $550,000 estate, testified yesterday that she did not kill her parents, did not see them killed and did not know who may have killed them.

Gollum, in beginning his testimony, said he purchased 50 pounds of dynamite the day before the Overell yacht blew up in Newport harbor, March 15. He said Overell asked him to buy the explosives.

"And Mr. Overell insisted that no one knew he was buying it," the bespectacled 21-year-old Gollum explained to the jury of six men and six women. He said that was why he signed a fictitious name on the sales slip for the explosives.

"I figured that if Mr. Overell didn't want his name used in the purchase, I wasn't going to have my name used, either."

Gollum's attorney, William Beirne, asked the youth how he planned to support the only daughter of the wealthy Overells.

12 BANK ACCOUNTS

The witness replied that he had one bank account of $600 and another of approximately $5000, established for him by his mother, Mrs. Joseph Stomel, for his education. In addition, he said, he would have $90 a month G. I. pay.

Bud said that on two occasions Beulah's mother told him he might continue paying court to her daughter.

He said he and Beulah planned to marry and both work, he after his classes at Los Angeles City College and she in the afternoons after her studies at the University of Southern California.

Beulah, who finished the day emotionally exhausted and in tears, had admitted to Prosecutor Eugene Williams in cross examination that she did not wish to be "beholden" to her parents but that she did not mind being under financial obligations to Bud's parents.

The prosecutor asked Beulah if it were not true that her parents had forbidden her marriage to Gollum and told her she could expect no help from them if she violated their wishes. She said that was not true.

"I COULD KILL HER"

On questioning by her own lawyer, Otto Jacobs, Beulah said she once wrote in a diary about her mother:

"I get so mad at her sometimes I could kill her."

That was written, Beulah said, after a piano lesson and her explanation was:

"I was tired."

Ruby Foo Family Rows Told in Court

Trial of Earle M. Shong, 24, son of Ruby Foo, who operates the Den chain of Chinese restaurants, on a charge of assault with intent to kill his stepfather, William Wong, during a family quarrel July 4-continued today in Suffolk Superior Court before Judge Frank J. Murray and jury.

Wong, who was shot through the neck, has testified under cross-examination that there had been considerable discord since his marriage to Ruby in 1941.

He recalled that last Jan. 12 he threw a statue at Ruby in their Jamaicaaway home. Ruby dodged and the statue crashed into a mirror.

He testified his failure to open a car door for his wife and her remark that he was no gentleman led to the shooting by Shong.

QUARREL CONTINUED

The quarrel started as they left the Den and was continued at their Jamaicaaway home, Wong said. He testified she grabbed a jack plane from a tool box in his workroom and beat him over the head with it.

When he took the plane from her she grabbed a hammer. Then she shouted, "Earle! and her son came in and shot at him, Wong said, and he sat on a chair and cried for a doctor.

"Oh! you've shot him," Ruby cried at her son, Wong said.

"Well you wanted me to kill him and I did," Earle replied, Wong testified.

"He told me then if I tell the police he'd shoot me again," Wong continued. "She often used Earle to scare me."

He denied the quarrel was over his demands for $300 for expenses of a visit of his friend, Lt. Tony Lin, of the Chinese Army, or over a demand for $1000 to send his sister to a summer school.

Lt. Lin told essentially the same story as Wong, adding that he had taken the gun from Earle after the shooting.

Dancing Seen Aide To Polio Victims

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Sept. 17 (AP)—Dancing is sometimes a useful exercise to be prescribed for certain recovering infantile paralysis patients who have a tendency to depend more on an unaffected leg even though the affected leg has useful power, according to Dr. Jessie Wright of Leedsdale, Pa.

Ethel Cohen, social service director of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, speaking of the problems of the convalescent stage for both patients and their families, said:

"The normal place for a convalescent infantile paralysis patient is in his own home," but she added: "The community has the responsibility for providing substitute arrangements when the home is unsuitable for the patient's care."

5 CUBA POLICE ACCUSED

Hub Court Probes Maternity Tangle

An investigator was appointed by Judge John V. Phelan today to probe whether or not Mrs. Esther Morin, 40, of Amesbury, is the mother of a 2-year-old boy her son-in-law claims was born to his wife, Mrs. Gloria M. Fosillo.

The strange court tangle came about during divorce action brought in Salem Probate Court by Louis P. Fosillo, 26, of Newburyport, who charged that his wife, Gloria, now of parts unknown, mothered a son by another man while he was in action in the Pacific.

Summoned as a witness was his mother-in-law, Mrs. Morin, who brought a sudden halt to proceedings when she testified that it was she and not her daughter that was the mother of the baby and stuck to her story under questioning from the bench.

"Appalling" prices asked for the latest Paris and London creations are entirely too steep for American women's pocketbooks, Carmel Snow, internationally known fashion expert, declared.

Mrs. Snow, editor of Harper's Bazaar, arrived here aboard the Queen Elizabeth after a six-week study of European fashions.

Although she said nothing about the controversy raging between the long and short skirt adherents, Mrs. Snow herself was wearing the new long style.

"Women here simply cannot afford to pay the kind of prices they ask in Paris," she said.

"For instance, a good Paris outfit consisting of skirt and coat would cost, including duty and other taxes, about $750 in New York.

"I don't believe you will see them in shops here.

"But the London and Paris creations are very interesting, more so than last year, in quality and attractiveness. They are back to prewar standards."

The only buyers interested in the foreign showings were from this country and Italy she said.

Swift Raps Probe Of K. C. Insurance

Judge John E. Swift, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, today took stern issue with the state insurance dept. and the latter's charges that the fraternal order's insurance program had violated state insurance laws.

The department is seeking to revoke the order's license on the basis of nine alleged violations, including a charge that $1,849,099 had been illegally transferred from the mortuary fund.

Judge Swift, at his home in Milford, declared the K. of C. insurance program had been operating without charges for 17 years. He said officers had checked with the state dept. in 1934 and in 1937.

Trieste Calm After 3 Die, 100 Are Hurt

TRIESTE, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Free Territory of Trieste calmed down today.

The city itself, where three persons were killed and nearly 100 injured in four days of rioting between Slavs and Italians, was quiet.

Yugoslav troops, denied entry yesterday to the U. S.-British northern zone of the territory by an American outpost, appeared to be skirting that zone for a routine crossing of Yugoslav-Trieste frontier to their own occupation zone in the south.

10 Yanks Dead In Soviet Zones

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R.) of Wisconsin, today made public a State Department compilation showing that 10 Americans have met death "under questionable circumstances" in Russian-dominated areas since war's end.

"In addition," Assistant Sec. Norman Armour wrote Wiley, "four American citizens suffered physical violence, not resulting in death."

President of Bonwit Teller Gratified by Hub's Welcome

"Boston provides the ideal location for a specialty store which must necessarily concentrate its appeal on the better class of apparel. Bonwit Teller is basing its philosophy of merchandising on good taste and it is entirely logical that we would select Boston as our location."

This was the message Roy M. Rudolph, president of Bonwit Teller, delivered at a press conference at the Ritz Carlton Hotel in announcing tomorrow's 2:30 p. m. opening of the new Bonwit Teller store at Boylston and Berkeley sts.

The 37-year-old president declared that "the warmth of our welcome to Boston has been more than gratifying to me." The press conference was attended by more than 60 Boston newspaper publishers, editors, writers and radio representatives.

"We hope that the confidence which Bonwit Teller has in Boston and New England will encourage other new businesses to locate here," Rudolph said. "Most of all, we are happy to be a part of Boston and we appreciate the kind welcome which has been extended to us—a welcome which has been significant because of the kind acceptance of Gov. Bradford as our guest of honor for the opening ceremony."

Doomed Girl Offered Trip To Specialist

DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 17 (AP)—Christmas presents from many parts of the country—including an offer to fly her to a brain specialist in some large city—were piling up to day in the home of Carolyn Robb, 4.

Carolyn, who has expressed the hope that "Santa Claus will hurry up and see me," is paralyzed on the right side by a brain cancer.

The little girl has been losing ground steadily, and her father, M. D. Robb, a railroad fireman, said he was afraid the Christmas party would have to be within a month.

A Decatur physician advised the family one of his patients would pay the expenses of flying the girl to a brain specialist in some large city.

Physicians in attendance, however, said they thought the best efforts had been made for Carolyn's case.

Last January, after her condition had grown worse, she was taken to Illinois Research Hospital in Chicago where doctors operated. They said, however, they were too late as the tumor had spread too far.

Robb said the hospital records of the girl's case would be sent to a specialist and that if he thought there was even a slim hope that anything further could be done, Carolyn would be flown there.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT has embarked on a tour of the United States to test his unpopularity. He is the second Republican openly and frankly to be a candidate for the nomination. The other is former Gov. Harold Stassen of Wisconsin, who has spent at least four years organizing for a super-buzz in imitation of Wendell Willkie.

Gov. Dewey of New York is not yet an avowed candidate although no one doubts his intentions. Gen. Eisenhower is an embarrassed candidate; for as chief of staff he is subordinate to President Truman and as an Army officer, he can have no politics. When he becomes president of Columbia University, he will be strictly on his own, without uniform, brass, or inhibitions.

President Truman has, with political acumen, accepted Sen. Taft as his opponent and has taken the unusual step of attacking him personally from the White House. In each debate between them, Taft did a masterly job on Truman, although the President, because of his office, got the headlines.

It has been difficult to appraise this situation, for it could be assumed that Truman wanted to kill Taft off as a prospective candidate or that he accepted Taft's nomination as inevitable and went on from there.

TAFT'S POSITION of leadership is not unique. Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Henry Cabot Lodge, Borah and many other Senators led their party and the country. Most such leaders were never nominated for the presidency because their very competence and leadership created too vehement an opposition to themselves both personally and politically.

Taft has courted opposition. He assumed the chairmanship of the Labor Committee of the Senate when he might have dodged it, and he produced the Taft-Hartley bill, which will be the principal issue in the campaign.

He opposes universal military service, which is favored by those who must support him if he is to be elected. He fought the appointment of David Lilienthal to the Atomic Energy Commission because he regarded Lilienthal as unsuitable; he might have passed that buck to Sen. Hickenlooper, who was chairman of the committee in charge of this matter and who did an inadequate job.

He has supported a housing bill, a health bill and a federal aid to education bill which many conservative Republicans and Democrats oppose.

HIS CAREER in the Senate, as leader, has therefore been unusual in that he pursued a philosophy of action which ignored popularity or unpopularity. I doubt whether he has ever looked at a Gallup or Roper or any other poll—and if perchance he has looked at them, he ignored their prognostications, as any public official of honor and dignity will.

For ours is a representative government in which the chosen officials of the people are expected to serve their terms in accordance with their consciences and the Constitution of the United States.

The poll-reading official buries his conscience beneath a mound of percentages and subordinates the Constitution to the whims and fashions of momentary public opinion. Taft would say that while he would like to be President of the United States, he would not stultify his honor, dignity and faith to gain it.

IT IS EXACTLY in this mood that he goes before the country now to speak his mind and to explain his philosophy. No orator, he will deliver his speeches without the advantage of voice culture or the apt phrases of hired ghosters.

He will hurl statistical data at anyone who asks a question. He will argue at the drop of a phrase. I once saw him stand before an audience of publishers, editors, writers and such folk, answering questions propounded by Nat Howard of the "Cleveland News" and many sent up from the floor — extemporaneously, without knowledge in advance as to what the questions would be. It was an amazing exhibition of information, wisdom, and sureness of position.

Taft may come out of this the Republican candidate or without a chance of nomination. Come

Whole World Buys Gifts for Princess Bess

Britain and the commonwealth, she some day will rule as queen. Millions were clanking tuppenny bits (3 cents) and half crowns (half dollars) into collection boxes to buy them. Silver and gold and fine feathers were in store for her.

Her parents, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, announced meanwhile they would give a wedding party Nov. 17—three days before the Westminster Abbey ceremony—so guests could see Elizabeth's presents.

One gift, at least, was coming from the United States. Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck of Richmond, Va., new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, sent word she would sail from New York tomorrow with the federation's present—a Madeira organdie applique table cloth and napkins. The women of Victoria State, Australia, decided today to give a jewel case wrought of Victorian fine gold and engraved with the state coat-of-arms.

Islanders of Guernsey off the French Coast, chipped in up to the limits of five shillings ($1) for adults and three pence (five cents) for children to buy the princess silver shaped by Guernsey craftsmen.

The mayor of Capetown, South Africa, called for contributions to buy an unspecified present.

Earlier, farmers of Oudtshoorn, South Africa, paid a record price of nine pounds ($36) a pound for white plumes to be given Princess Elizabeth.

The Daily Telegraph here said the diplomatic corps intended to present the bride-to-be with a traveling case with silver fittings engraved with a flowing "E."

Good Looking - Good Going

Go right ahead, sir, and strain your coat buttons — but don't be surprised if the snapshots show only half the picture.

True enough, they'll show those long, sleek, flowing fender lines. You can expect them to portray you posed with the fashion-plate smartness that calls the turn on car styles for a long time to come.

But what camera can hope to catch a picture of the thrill that's yours when you touch off the life in this big Fireball straight-eight power plant and really start going places?

What lens can paint the wondrous, level going you get from four soft coil springs, one on each wheel, that turn every ride into a level glide?

How are you going to show the good solid feel of bigness and ample road-weight — the steady, road-wise bearing of a car long enough and husky enough to ride highway and byway alike with equal serenity?

For good going means just as much as good looks in making this America's most wanted automobile.

Power in abundance — control that's firm yet light — room for six big grownups — firmness and quiet and long, dependable life — these are part of any Buick and every Buick no less than the very newest in styling.

That's why Buick's the kind of buy that's smart regardless of delivery date. That's why it's mighty wise to nail one down now, ahead of tomorrow's buyers.

We'll take your order with or without a trade-in. We'll make delivery as soon as we possibly can. But we can't do a thing to make you sure of getting the newest thing in automobiles until you give us the word.

How about getting a firm order in right away?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Both the Army and Navy are encountering difficulties in enlisting enough men, officials said, R. Adm. Thomas L. Sprague,

In the Army, recruiting is at a level well below the 30,000 a month average needed to attain authorized strength, Gen Eisenhower disclosed.

The services will be held each night until Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, arrives next Tuesday at sunset.

Florida Wives Buy Turtle Steaks in Meat Protest

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—Barton H. Smith, an importer, said the sale of turtle steaks is booming as more and more housewives buy them as a substitute for higher priced beef.

Most housewives beat the steak, roll it in batter and fry it in deep fat, Smith said, but the meat also is used in stews and in baked dishes. Smith said, turtle steak usually sold for around 80 cents a pound where beef steak was $1 or higher.

New Sickness and Accident Plan Includes $25 Weekly Benefit Feature

Costs Only $12 a Year—Down Payment $2.50 Pays Hospital Benefits for Accidents

The average family has an income of $65 a week or less. Because of the high cost of living, they can't save money to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, in case accident or sickness strikes. Therefore, the 60-year-old North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago announces a special plan which gives just the kind of protection such families should have. It pays $25 a week for 10 weeks for certain specified accidents and sicknesses. Also, this Premier Limited Double Duty Policy pays $25 a week for 4 weeks for accidents requiring hospital confinement. Yet the total cost is only $12 a year. The purpose of this new policy is to bring sickness and accident protection within the reach of men and women who do not have large savings with which to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, or lost income.

This new plan also has a double-indemnity feature covering travel accidents. You receive $50 a week if disabled by an accident in a bus, taxicab, streetcar, train, etc., and $75 a week if the accident requires hospital confinement. There is another new special feature that pays up to $25 cash for doctor bills, even for a minor accident such as a cut finger. In case of accidental death the policy pays one thousand dollars cash to your family. Two thousand dollars if caused by a travel accident.

In addition, it covers many sicknesses including pneumonia, cancer, appendicitis operation, etc., paying the weekly benefits whether confined to home or hospital.

The entire cost is only $12 a year (even this small amount can be paid monthly—$2.50 down and $2.00 a month for 5 months—total cost $12.50) for both men and women between the ages of 15 and 64 inclusive. Between the ages of 65 and 75 the cost is only $18 a year. Protects you 24 hours a day. No reduction in benefits regardless of age. No medical examination is required.

Suppose you are now a member of some worthy hospitalization plan... you still need this additional protection. Why? Because only a small percentage of people are confined to a hospital—and even then only for a fraction of the time they are disabled. Most people are confined at home where hospitalization plans do not apply. The North American Plan pays specified benefits regardless of whether you are confined to your home or to a hospital.

North American Accident Insurance Company, of Chicago, has devoted over sixty years to the underwriting of Accident and Health Insurance. It has paid out over $40,000,000 to grateful policy holders when they needed help most. North American is licensed by the Insurance Department of the State of Massachusetts, as well as 46 other States and The District of Columbia.

Men and women who would like full details about this new plan are urged to write a letter or postcard for a revealing booklet called "Cash or Sympathy." This booklet is absolutely free. It will come by ordinary mail without charge or obligation of any kind. No agent will call to deliver it. We suggest you get a free copy by mailing coupon to Premier Policy Division, North American Accident Insurance Co. of Chicago, 830 Broad Street, Dept. 652, Newark 2, New Jersey.

More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

S. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

MAYBE you're in this picture; but even if you're not you'll remember the wartime cigarette shortage when people smoked so many different brands. With smoker after smoker who has tried and compared, Camels are the "Choice of Experience."

Yes, experience during the wartime cigarette shortage taught millions the differences in cigarette quality!

LET POLO STAR Cecil Smith tell you in his own words:

"That cigarette shortage during the war was a real experience. That's when I learned how much I really appreciated Camels. They suit me to a 'T'!"

Yes, that shortage was a revealing experience to smokers everywhere. One day they smoked one brand—next day a different brand. Now and then the brand was Camel. That's how so many more smokers learned...from experience...that Camels suit them best.

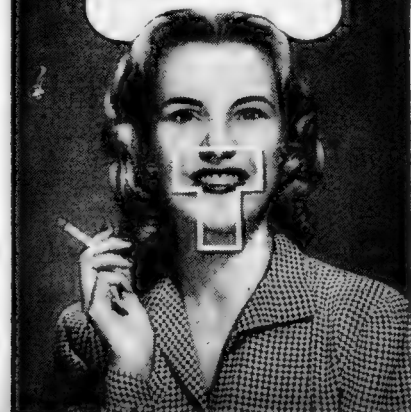

Try Camels. Compare. Let your own experience tell you why more people are smoking Camels than ever before.

YOUR "T-ZONE"

That's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a 'T'.

According to a Nationwide survey: MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE

Three nationally known independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors—in every branch of medicine—to name the cigarette they smoked. More doctors named Camel than any other brand.

TRAGIC ENGORE

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 17 (AP)—A small boy selected from thousands of spectators at an RAF exhibition today radioed a request to a Spitfire pilot overhead to "do me a victory roll."

Flight Lt. B. E. Green, a Canadian, rolled his fighter a few hundred feet off the beach and radioed back: "Sorry, sonny, it was not a very good one."

Green tried again. The Spitfire dived into the sea and he drowned.

Hope in Fight on High Blood Pressure Seen in New Drug

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—Some new drugs showing promise of combating high blood pressure were reported today to the American Chemical Society.

They have been tried so far, however, only in animals, and are not yet ready for human tests.

In animals, the drugs proved more effective in relieving high blood pressure than dibenamine, a drug recently tried on humans for this ailment, said Dr. George Rieveschel, Jr., Dr. Robert W. Fleming, and William R. Coleman of Parke-Davis & Co., Detroit.

The drugs did not cause bad effects of Nausea and vomiting like dibenamine often does, they said. Several of the drugs also showed promise of acting effectively against hayfever, hives, and other allergies, they added.

Human health may be menaced by butter and milk from cows eating grass treated with DDT, said Dr. O. Garth Fitzhugh of the division of pharmacology, food and drug administration.

Cows can transmit the insecticide to their milk, he said. The DDT is concentrated in the butter-fat part of the milk, and "a relatively small amount in the whole milk could possibly result in an injurious amount in the butter."

CONSTITUTION DAY

IT IS A WONDERFUL and most admirable and inspiring trait of national character which evokes from the American people an annual declaration and demonstration of the respect and reverence they have for the Constitution of the United States.

Conceivably, a nation can become powerful and rich without being worthy of the high estate in world affairs to which power and wealth contribute—and indeed there have been numerous powerful and rich nations in world history which have detracted from rather than added to the spiritual stature of mankind, and thus have proved their unworthiness of the gifts with which they were endowed.

The American nation, as it has lived for 160 years under the moral precepts of the Constitution of the United States, has distinguished itself by having a better and higher concept of the possession of power and wealth—holding the source of these things and the purpose they serve to be matters of greater meaning and higher obligation than the mere fact of possession.

The American people declare and demonstrate their reverence for the Constitution and their loyalty to the patriotic commandments it lays upon them, not arrogantly as if it were an instrument for their exclusive enjoyment and aggrandizement, but gratefully and earnestly in recognition of the responsibility it confers upon them in addition to the blessings that accrue to them by virtue of their acceptance of that responsibility.

The Constitution of the United States put into practice a pattern of human relationships that, while it has proved to be of incalculable profit to the American people, has had little emulation elsewhere in the world, and such emulation as has been attempted has been of timid aspiration and brief and futile duration.

In a very large sense, the American people thus hold something of immeasurably intrinsic and moral value IN TRUST for humanity in general—not to be imposed upon any other people as a way of life, but to be proved to them as a pattern of conduct in accordance with which the coveted freedoms of mankind are attainable and the dignity of mankind preserved and the productive destiny of mankind gained and served.

The Constitution of the United States has been indispensable and inseparable from the ascendancy to a position of power and wealth in the world by the American people, BUT IT IS AN EXCEEDINGLY VULNERABLE INSTRUMENT IN ITS DEPENDENCE UPON THE ABILITY AND THE DESIRE OF THE PEOPLE TO SUSTAIN IT.

The Constitution of the United States was written by men of great courage and high faith, and it has lived for 160 years in consequence of the continued courage and faith the American people—and thus most encouraging and inspiring aspect of our declaration and demonstration of respect and reverence for the Constitution today is the evidence these expressions afford of renewed dedication and consecration to its preservation.

Fair Enough

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—In the language of Adolf Hitler, a massacre was a purge; Stalin calls a pogrom a liquidation. Roosevelt, with a similar knack for euphemism, used the term "collective bargaining" to disguise the degradation of the lower income groups.

The British are not bad at that sort of thing, either, when occasion requires them to deceive themselves. And so the British Trades Union Congress voted six to one in favor of "direction" of labor. The Congress runs the Labor government.

"Direction" of labor, by its maiden name, is conscription of labor at wages agreed to by the employers and the government, subject to the approval of the Trades Union Congress. The Congress is a small minority of the British people, with about 7,500,000 members. It is the British equivalent of our A. F. of L. and C. I. O.

Like these privileged American Tongs, it has private agreements with the legal government of the nation by which the fads and prejudices of its boss-characters are adopted as "policies" of the government.

BRITISH UNION MEMBERSHIP is erroneously believed to be voluntary because the law recognizes the open shop. To believe that all those who join the unions do so willingly is like believing that all persons who tip waiters for slovenly service do so voluntarily.

The British unionizer has not yet learned to jam the obstinate freeman's bike into the oncoming lorry or to threaten to slit his children's throats.

But he has other coercions and he has learned a little from Hitler, a little from Uncle Joe and a lot from our own Fays and Boves. He has always had a controlled capacity for meanness, and his stupidity was painted up as little posies of homely humor, and sold in the export trade as innate intelligence.

Actually, his betters, the upper classes, had a monopoly on the good sense of the country, and by humoring the sallow, snuffing doll, were able to deter him from hurting himself, and them, until now. The aristocrats had time for scholarship, statesmanship, management and politics in the intellectual sense of the word.

AFTER THE SECOND BIG WAR, by a conspiracy of conditions, the lower orders were so manipulated that they seemed to win an election and the right to try their hand at government.

This was a terrible thing for Britain, but no less awful for the working classes than for the aristocracy.

They became the sponsors of an unbelievably

Slabby, frightened and dejected gang of white-collar Cockneys when the perils and problems called for the finest intelligence, ability, courage and dignity in the kingdom.

The Labor government could only try irreparable experiments in nationalization.

When this vandalism had produced only the melancholy wreckage of a great system, the very miners themselves made sure that their own class should fail and prove its foreseen incompetence to manage the nation, by loafing, malingering and striking.

THE EXPERIMENT WAS capricious and mad. It was obvious that people educated and trained for generations in the science of government should govern better than a crew of roustabouts.

The unionizers had long insisted on the merits of training through apprenticeship. They wouldn't let a navy run a loom.

But they had the reckless nerve to bid for the job of running the country, and the misfortune to win.

And so, in this short while, we now hear the Trades Union Congress voting the British people back into serfdom, 6 to 1.

If any British government of any other political stripe had come whining to the T. U. C. for the right to conscript labor as the only means of meeting any "crisis" in time of peace, the Labor movement would have howled for bloody revolution.

Conscription of labor was Hitler's way. That is how the bloody Nazis did it, and Mussolini, and, of course, the backward Bolsheviks. But Britons NEVER, NEVER, NEVER would be slaves until September of 1947 when the Trades Union Congress, the political holding company of the government, representing a small minority of the population, and the least intellectual, agreed to the "direction" of labor.

A PRIVATE ORGANIZATION, from which the elected national government takes its direction, gave an incompetent, groping roustabout of political slobs the right to send a British workman to prison for refusal to go where he may be sent and work to the satisfaction of boss-robots, for wages decided without consultation with him, all in the national interest.

The sullen proviso that the coupon-clipper shall be drafted for labor, too, was a pathetic but infallible appeal to the stupidity of the convention. Now the British workman is in for it, because the same government can say to him that he must obey because the aristocracy have been sent to the pits and the docks, too.

The conscription of property, called the "direction of materials" into essential industry, and the confiscation of money by a process called "nationalization" round out the Hitlerian program.

All these things, Hitler did long ago. Now the British have the essentials of Nazism themselves.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17—Virginia Grey, who has been referred to so many times as the secret romance in Clark Gable's life, gets herself a very good break as the chief female attraction in "So This Is New York," King Leeper's story.

Virginia Grey

In addition she has been handed a long-term contract by Enterpriser, who chose her after seeing a series of tests.

So many times Virginia, who is a very sweet girl, has just missed the part which would give her a chance at stardom, that she hopes this is it.

"So This Is New York" is a comedy satire which stars Henry Morgan, radio comic. It will be produced by Stanley Kramer and directed by Dick Fleischer.

GREER GARSON is extremely happy over the selection of "The Nutmeg Tree" by Marjorie Sharpe as her next movie, and she's especially glad she and Walter Pidgeon are to be reunited. She'll start in six weeks with Jack Conway directing.

"I feel I need a comedy," Greer said, when I stopped by her house for a cup of tea a few days ago. "After I finish 'Nutmeg Tree' I'll do 'Chances of Bruges,' a really wonderful story. Actually I haven't made a picture for almost a year, and I can't tell you how much I want to get going again. Of course 'Desire Me' is set to be released, but as you know, that was made over a year ago."

Everyone, I might add, is as happy as Greer that she's getting back to work again and that things are looking brighter for her.

JUST BEFORE Douglas Fairbanks took off for the United Nations banquet in New York he telephoned to say he had signed a new deal with William Goetz, and would make his next picture, following "Lady in Ermine," at Universal-International.

"But I thought you belonged at U-I?" he said.

Then he told me his first deal was for only one picture, but after Billy saw "The Exile" he liked it so much he wanted Doug to stay. So "The O'Flynn's," the Justin Huntly McCarthy story, will be a U-I release.

I don't think Doug had to worry about getting a deal, because I am told a number of companies were after him; but still, with the retrenching at every studio, it's nice he has been given an extra budget.

THE ARBITRARY action of Lloyd Binford, chairman of the Memphis censor board, in banning Hal Roach's comedy "Dorothy" because a Negro child is shown playing with white children will not be accepted by either United Artists or the Motion Picture Producers Ass'n without a battle. They will go to court if necessary.

"Song of the South," which shows an old Negro, Uncle Remus, as the central character, and many little Negro children frolicking about with Bobby Driscoll and Luana Patten, was first premiered in the south and they loved it. Certainly Farina, a pickaninny with pigtales, who was the smallest youngster in Hal Roach's "Our Gang" comedies, was never barred. The south loved this funny child.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Tyrone Power cabled from Africa to say he had just visited Liberia and is headed for the Belgian Congo and Capetown. It's so far away yet with airplanes today, distance doesn't mean anything.

Lana Turner, who has heard from Ty practically every day, still would like to join him, but she has a date on the MGM lot making "Home Coming" with Clark Gable. Those who returned recently from Europe they have seen Annabella dining with a handsome young man described as half French and half Russian, so Annabella, who shows no inclination to come back to America, may give Ty that divorce he's been requesting.

Here's news of a highly original experiment which should interest our Hollywood producers. A new play, "The Heirless," starring Wendy Hiller, will open on Broadway Sept. 29, and a film version with the New York cast will be made while the show is still running there.

"The Heirless," taken from the Henry James story, is about a young girl under the influence of a dominating father. Basil Rathbone plays the father, and that fine actress, Patricia Collins, also will be in the cast. Fred F. Finkelhoff, husband of Ella Logan, has formed his own picture company, and announces he will start producing the movie shortly after the play opens, keeping the Broadway cast intact.

THE ARGUMENT over the new code of shorts, nudist, hips and sloping shoulders became so hectic in New York that Adrian, who is there, sent for five of his models and 75 new outfits. From his fall collection he then staged a show for the fashion editors on the theory that seeing is believing.

evading rap on Johnny Meyer. The 41-year-old lawmaker, an ex-Army colonel himself, which put him in the company of the "brass hats" Hughes so bitterly denounced, determined to do his own investigating. So he hired to Los Angeles at his own expense—becoming the only member of the Brewster committee to inspect the controversial plane in company with Hughes.

HE CAME in a frankly hostile mood. He did not like what Hughes had done to the dignity of the Senate. Now he is about to depart for Europe with the armed services committee—he provides me with this exclusive report on his findings: "My dear George: You wanted me to report on the highly controversial Hughes flying boat and I willingly agreed. Here it is:

"It's impossible to describe this indescribable, but to my great satisfaction I have seen it and—I have registered for a seat on the trial run. "This may seem strange, because, as a member of the war

Other members of the press were there, too. Really, not in years have our top designers argued so vociferously over what we women are to wear to be in style. Maybe it's a good thing that some of us have to wear our little old last year's numbers; that lets us out of making a decision.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Bogey and Baby came back to town today to celebrate Baby's birthday. They return to their boat over the weekend.

Another birthday celebrated was Mrs. Edgar Bergen's. Edgar was gifted with diamond ear clips. Food gift.

Norma Shearer has canceled her jaunt to Europe because of the necessity of an operation on her son, Irving Thaller, Jr. She plans to go the first of the year.

Mary Livingston Benny has been bedridden for almost two weeks with pneumonia.

If there was any trouble with Hedy Lamarr and Mark Stevens it's all over now. Mark painted her garden furniture over the weekend. What greater love hath any man?

Was that Dr. John Duzack having dinner with the mercurial June Haver? I wouldn't say for sure, but it looked like her.

Bobby Moynihan and Willis Hunt look like an item, and she may be the fourth Mrs. Hunt or is it the third?

Joe Cook, Jr., son of the comedian, will become a father in March.

Kay St. Germaine, Jack Carson's estranged wife, glimpsed lunching in the corner of the Beverly Hills Club with a dark and handsome man.

Saw William Perlberg at the new L'Aiglon restaurant at dinner. He was certainly happy to be back. He said "Escape" had started at the Denham Studios in London.

Vanessa Brown, Ida Lupino, Collier Young and Sam Goldwyn, Jr. A happy foursome at the new Sueden restaurant.

Ross Shattuck's new paintings will be recognized here long, they are so good, so doing some sketches and paintings to that new Sueden restaurant.

It's painting of Virginia City about of this world and will be exhibited in New York later in the fall in a one-man show.

Project at Cugat and Louie Allen will be married here, Oct. 5 instead of in Mexico as they had planned.

investigating committee, it might be assumed I had reason to believe it was a figment of somebody's imagination, a gigantic hoax.

"My principal investigating interest was to determine whether the original 1942 contract for the boat should have been let to Howard Hughes, or anyone else.

"The conclusion may turn out to be inescapable that the flying boat never had a remote chance of being a practical project and that the letting of the contract in 1942 was an excusable mistake.

"But we are living today in 1947, not 1942, and I am possessed of the positive feeling that, if the contract was a large and unnecessary mistake at that time—the result has become a tremendous national blessing in disguise.

"Airlines have grown increasingly in size and power, but each aircraft that came along was merely an enlargement of some predecessor. Now we come to Hughes and his creation.

WHILE OUR PUP was making a peaceful survey of the tree, post and fire pump situation he was attacked by a dog who rushed out of a shop. This quarrelsome canine grabbed hold of one of his long ears. So our pup, poor fellow, had to be taken to the hospital and have 11 stitches taken in his ear. Besides he has to stay confined for a few days with his ear taped up. It is depressing to think of the many difficulties that can be encountered by nations, people and dogs who are just trying to mind their own business.

SAYS HE: "The historical aspect of the part of females, as to the long-kilt style and their continued boring conversation about it, is one of the things that make a bachelor feel the propaganda of matrimony with alarm," writes a Manhattan bachelor. "A clothes-crazy woman makes a trying and expensive vice. There have recently been several revelations or suggestions as to infant care which have caused some discussion among a few intelligent and sensible women. But these new baby-rearing views have had little effect on the conversation of most females. The majority would rather chatter, rattle and chortle about the length of skirts and the new horizon they discuss the vital matter of child rearing. No wonder the courts are jammed with wretched delinquents. No wonder so many ill-bred brats are encountered everywhere. I am going to Australia to see if I can get one of the girls I met during the war to marry me. I don't want any clothes-crazy dog-male-up, racket-swallowing female to be the mother of my children."

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q. My grandmother says the reference to the "Gay Nineties" is ridiculous. She says that was a comparatively dull period in this country's history. How about this? A. The term "The Gay Nineties" is of English origin. Over there greatly reached a high peak during the 1890's. Q. Who is Jones Day's New York's latitudinal side resort, named after? A. An Irishman named Matt Thomas Jones is honored. The name was married a girl with the quaint name of Evelyn Townsend, settled on the south shore of Long Island in 1892. He had previously taken a private tutor.

Incidentally, Ricardo is one of the few actors engaged in playing romantic leads who is a cigar smoker. That is in private life. If there ever has been a film in which the player of the romantic male lead smoked cigars I don't remember it. The producers believe cigar smoking detracts from the romantic appearance of the hero. Maybe they are right. But I know a lot of cigar smokers who do all right with the ladies. . . . Father Dan Gleason, Much beloved New Yorker. Formerly a member of the New York police department. Designed for the law in 1932 to study for the priesthood. Was ordained at Notre Dame University in 1940, is a native of County Monaghan, Ireland. It is extremely interesting to note the great number of New York policemen who have in their spare time studied to be lawyers, doctors or priests. Founding the pavement of Manhattan seems to make a man ambitious.

HUSBAND AND WIFE: A Wisconsin husband removed a sum of money from his wife's purse. The wife had him arrested. The judge dismissed the case. He said the money in the wife's purse was the property of both matrimonial partners, and the husband had a right to take it if he wished to. Keep this in mind, lady, if you live in Wisconsin, I would also suggest wives in all states take steps to ascertain what their rights are. They vary quite a little in the various states. In some states where a man takes his wife's money, he is merely lending it to her. He can take it and still, if necessary, he wants to. In case of a divorce the bank credit is his property. Also, in some states a husband is entitled to take possession of his wife's pay check and decide how it should be spent.

GET IT RIGHT: A hostess wanted to bet me a steak that Barbara Stanwyck was starred in the play "Burlesque" in 1924, and that she was at least 15 years old at the time. The gentleman is in error. Barbara was co-starred with Hal Skelly in "Burlesque" in 1927. She was about 21 years of age at that time.

Washington Scene

(Copyright, 1947, King Feature Synd.) TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 17—Until time provides the answer, there is one question which will pop up again and again and again wherever two or more Americans are assembled.

"Is Howard Hughes' mammoth flying boat a costly pipe dream or is it an imminent practicality?"

In other words, was $40,000,000 of the taxpayers' money thrown away on a rich young eccentric's fable or is it worth well-invested to put us miles ahead of the rest of the world in peace and wartime aviation?

With the issue hot as it is, and due to flare up again Nov. 17, few responsible members of government care to tick their necks out by hazarding an answer. But one man has—probably one you might least expect.

He is Sen. Harry P. Cain of Washington—a Republican and member of Sen. Brewster's war investigating committee. You may recall him as the inquisitor who tried to hang a draftevading rap on Johnny Meyer. The 41-year-old lawmaker, an ex-Army colonel himself, which put him in the company of the "brass hats" Hughes so bitterly denounced, determined to do his own investigating. So he hired to Los Angeles at his own expense—becoming the only member of the Brewster committee to inspect the controversial plane in company with Hughes.

"It was said by some witnesses and some Senators in Washington that the Hughes boat was a mere skeleton; that there was no serious intention to construct a ship that would fly. How silly and seriously unfair such statements are proved to be by a single, thrilling visit.

"The flying boat, so far as I could determine, has been ready to fly, save for one nonessential obstacle, for the better part of a year.

"It isn't capable of taking to the air today for the simple reason that, unlike any other plane ever constructed, it is completely unmaneuverable by the brains and hands of man. Power controls are in present day planes, but when these systems break down the crew can take over and guide the ship to earth.

"But the Hughes boat can never take off, no land unless it has a power control system with a ratio of 200 to 1—200 times the strength of a man. And it must be infallible; it can't work one day and fail the next."

Whitens Skin Soothingly

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

PARADOXICAL CREATURES, we women! Unpredictable, to be sure, but, ah, so lovely! And who would have us otherwise? Who would dare to author a change in our whimsy and temperament? Is there a brave, bold, darling man around?

All summer long we work so hard and persistently trying to acquire a bronze-goddess tan. We sweater under the burning sun . . . covered with protective ointments, naturally . . . turning from side to side and back to front . . . coaxing King Sol to do his best in toasting out exposed expanses with special emphasis on a cafe au lait countenance.

Then we tuck our swim suit . . . the dear and responsible little coverage . . . away in moth balls . . . fold nicely the serviceable playsuit for next summer's recalling . . . for it is September and fall fashions beckon our eye in all their glamorous glory. And what happens to the bronze-goddess look? It is old stuff . . . it's dated. And knowing its limitations . . . it begins to fade and steal out of our complexions.

For now the process of whitening the skin, ridding the facial expanse of freckles and summer discolorations must get underway. No matter how loathe we are to lose the tan . . . the tan, of its own accord, loses itself, in knowing understanding that it must go. But its memory lingers on in a muddy residue that has no place in any complexion. For such a muddy complexion can't meet and greet the new fall colors!

THE COLORS FOR FALL

And what colors are on the fall fashion agenda? Deep, rich forest greens . . . dark, dark browns . . . vibrant rusts and purples . . . electric blues . . . autumnal colorings in clothes that demand radiant facial tones. And so the complexion must be overhauled in its seasonal dismantling of off with the faded tans and on with the lighter, brighter complexion.

There is a perfectly grand skin whitener. It does a terrific job. It contains oils from fresh strawberries grown in Florida and on with the lighter, brighter complexion.

Fur on Dresses, Suits

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

FUR is being used importantly this year on some of the winter's best wools. It is used in touches: to form the collar of a suit, the lining of a cape, the pockets and cuffs of a dress.

New processes have pared down its bulk, making the furs more pliant and graceful. Now fur can be handled like a fabric. It can be folded into little standing collars or draped into flared peplums. Besides the undeniable beauty that fur adds to a costume, it brings a feeling of luxurious warmth that fabric alone can never give.

Fredrick designed the dress sketched today. Made in John Walther ivory wool, it is draped to the figure with a sculptured torso line at the front and a folded style at the back. Soft brown alter makes the pair of peplums that cover the hips and the flared cuffs that finish off the long sleeves. The fur is detachable. The cuffs are double purpose. They can also be worn as a fez for the head.

BATHING BEAUTY days and looking as lovely as Columbia filmstress Adele Jergens are now only a memory . . . but, before you know it, summer will be here again with all its carefree wonders. In the interim, there's fall and winter to consider . . . to prepare for . . . with faded summer tans and muddy complexions giving way to overhauled facial softness and smoothness.

Let the Past Alone

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: When I was 13 I began going with a boy of 17. We went together four years and then he went into the service. People wrote him a lot of gossip about me which he believed and we broke up.

After that, I met a very nice man and we were married. I told him about the other boy before I married him, but it didn't seem to matter then. We have a baby son. About three weeks ago this boy came home and I know I still love him. He is supposed to be married, too, but he keeps going up and down in front of my house, and after I see him I get so weepy I can't do anything. I love my husband, but in a different way, "VERY MIXED-UP."

Dear "Very Mixed-Up":

It seems to me you would be a very poor sport if you went back on your marriage at this point. The decision to marry this other man was entirely your own, and, since he has evidently been a good husband to you, I think you would be unfair to break up this home now.

It is perfectly possible for you to put the other man out

Flowers, Not Hat For Bride

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: In the middle of next month I am to be married at home; a simple, informal wedding, at which I am to wear a street-length afternoon dress of pastel shade. Must I wear a hat? If it is correct, I would like to wear flowers in my hair, the same kind of flowers I am to have in my corsage. Also, should I wear gloves?

DORIS F.

At an informal house wedding it is proper, and quite customary, for the bride to wear flowers in her hair instead of a hat . . . and your idea of matching these flowers to your corsage-flowers is a delightful one. Although gloves may be worn if you think they are necessary to complete the harmony of your ensemble, they generally are not worn at a house wedding, either formal or informal.

FUR-TRIMMED suits are on the fashion calendar this year . . . but strongly. On the classic lines of this black broadcloth suit . . . Designer Molly lavishes platinum fox to give articulate expression to the neckline and hipline of the buttoned jacket. The band of fur serves as pockets as well. The suit has the appearance of a coat.

Top Tomato Recipes

By MARTHA LEE,
Household Editor.

ALTHOUGH tomatoes are available from January to January, it's right now that we are buying them in triple quantities.

When it comes to versatility, tomatoes head the list—so delicious in salads, stuffed, broiled, or stewed.

TOMATO SALADS

Wash medium-sized, firm, ripe tomatoes; peel, if desired, and scoop out centers. Sprinkle insides with salt, invert and chill in refrigerator. Fill with stuffing, serve on crisp salad green with salad dressing, and garnish as desired. The following stuffings may be used:

Orange Stuffing: Mix together diced orange sections, chopped tomato pulp, drained, and minced onion or chives; moisten with dressing.

Corn and Green Pepper Stuffing: Mix together cooked kernel corn, diced celery, tomato pulp, drained, and minced green pepper and pimiento; sprinkle with salt and marinate in French dressing. Top filled tomatoes with frankfurters, boiled, skinned, sliced and sautéed in butter, if desired.

Crabmeat Stuffing: Mix flaked crabmeat, diced celery, chopped tomato pulp, minced pimiento and capers. Moistened with mayonnaise.

Chicken Stuffing: Substitute diced chicken and cucumber for crabmeat and celery, and omit capers in crabmeat stuffing.

Carrot-Olive Stuffing: Mix together grated raw carrot, minced, stuffed olives and tomato pulp, and cream cheese; moisten with cream and serve with salt and pepper.

STEWED TOMATOES

Blanch firm ripe tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute; drain, slip off skins and remove stem ends. Cut in quarters and cook, covered, in their own juice or with very small amount of water 5 to 20 minutes, or until tender. Season with salt, pepper and sugar; add small amount of onion sautéed in 1 tablespoon butter, if desired. 1 cup of bread or cracker crumbs may be used for thickening, or tomatoes may be served with croutons.

TOMATO KETCHUP

1 1/2 cups tomatoes 3 red peppers
2 medium-sized onions, cut fine
2 tsp. salt 1-3 cup sugar
2 tsp. ground mustard
2 cups vinegar 1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. whole allspice
1 tsp. cinnamon 1/2 tsp. cloves
Cook tomatoes, peppers and onions together without adding water. Press mixture through strainer and measure pulp. To pulp (4 quarts) add the salt, sugar and spices. Place whole spices in a bag during the cooking and remove bag before pouring the ketchup into jars. Ground spices, except paprika, will darken ketchup. Long, slow cooking also gives a dark color. Cook ingredients together, except vinegar, rapidly for 1 hour, add vinegar and cook mixture until it is thick. Seal in clean, hot jars. It should be bright-red in color.

TOMATO CONSERVE

2 cups seedless raisins
2 lemons, cut in small pieces
1 cup English walnuts
8 cups sugar 2 qts. tomatoes
Wash raisins. Blanch, peel and core fresh tomatoes. Mix ingredients, except nuts, and cook mixture until mixture is thick and clear. Add nuts, chopped fine, and pour mixture into clean, hot jars and seal at once.

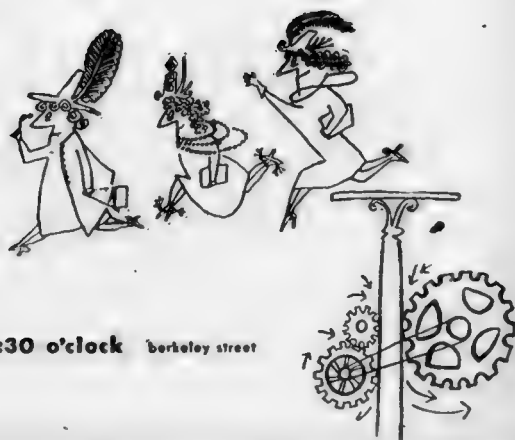

TOMATO MARMALADE

2 qts. ripe tomatoes
1 cup cider vinegar
2-3 cup sugar 2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. mixed spices
Combine ingredients. Cook mixture slowly until it is thick, stirring to prevent burning. Pack into clean, hot jars. Seal immediately.

'How I Wonder' Leaves Hub Audience Doing Just That

By PEGGY DOYLE

Even if Donald Ogden Stewart's astral-oriented script failed to give the anticipated lift to the Wilbur's last-nighters, Donald Oenslager's arresting sky-room with its "majestic roof fretted with golden fire" must have jolted the most earthbound, however briefly.

Breaking a 15-year Hollywood sabbatical, the playwright-humorist-author-actor returns to the theater with a new comedy, "How I Wonder."

In the tantalizing way titles sometimes have a way of booming, Mr. Stewart's newest last night incubated a host of $64 how-I-wonders.

Suggested by the atom bomb, the play's plot is about a professor of astronomy and the infinite variety of problems that afflict him when he is not immediately attuned to the music of the spheres.

Mr. Stewart, whose pre-Hollywood creative efforts were characterized by the light touch in the handling of contemporary concerns, has shrouded his story in symbolism.

His play has been expertly cast, and Raymond Massey's Prof. Lemuel Stevenson is particularly notable for a loftiness of spirit combined with a warmth and simplicity reminiscent of the great men of science to whom we look to guide us out of the chaos of fear, distrust, intolerance.

But, unhappily, "How I Wonder" is an example of the sweet uses of propaganda turned into anything but capital entertainment. It has a good idea, but the premise is not clearly phrased. The characters stooge for the ideas, and it is never quite clear just what several of the symbolic materializations are meant to convey.

For instance, there is the fugitive from the celestial spaces, Lisa. In her introductory speech, she mentions that she has been in prison, actually because she didn't understand the language although the charge on the police blotter was street walking. As talented Meg Mundy plays Lisa, she might be the professor's better-self, or his soul. I wonder!

Wyrley Birch's Henry Harkrider is represented as a rich man who uses his power and prestige to browbeat such as the idealistic scientist. He is, on the other hand, a great philanthropist. Nor is he above aiding a jobless Negro spring his brother out of jail. Just what makes Henry Harkrider do what he does, Mr. Stewart never tells us. Why, I wonder?

Mr. Stewart is now 30 years out of Yale, yet strangely his play doesn't show his age. It might well have been written by a newly sheep-skinned grad.

Or else, that sometimes embarrassing excess of liberalism might possibly be traced back to the guilt-complex that ails so many playwrights who go to Hollywood.

Bay State Comm. To Fight Conflict On Racing Dates

By JACK CONWAY

The Massachusetts Racing Commission will take drastic action if Suffolk Downs, Rockingham Park, Narragansett Park, Lincoln Downs and the racing solons that control the destinies of these tracks cannot work out a 1948 schedule that will avoid conflicts, Chairman Harry Allen of the Bay State board told this writer.

"Massachusetts has always leaned backwards in an effort to maintain harmony in New England racing," said Allen. "We do not intend to follow such a policy in the future. We still wish to avoid racing conflicts such as the one between Narragansett and Rockingham Park, but we shall adopt a different system."

This writer asked Allen if he would make an effort to get the heads of the various tracks and the Racing Commissioners to talk things over and see if they could adjust their differences.

"We shall try to arrange a peace meeting," said the chairman of the Massachusetts Commission, "but if it does not work out satisfactorily we intend to take drastic action."

"Does that mean that your board will grant Suffolk Downs 90 days of racing so that it will be better able to compete against other tracks?" this writer asked.

Allen did not care to answer this question, but it appears a certainty that Suffolk Downs will be granted 90 days of racing in 1948 if there is a racing war. This would be 25 less racing days than was given to the Pascoag-Lincoln Downs group by the Rhode Island Commission.

Under the Massachusetts law the commission has the power to grant 90 days of racing. This year Suffolk Downs was given 68 days.

Before racing was voted out in Hampden County, Suffolk Downs received 60 and Agawam Park 30 days of racing.

Predicts $800 Purses at New England Tracks

Allen predicts there will be $800 purses at New England tracks unless the various racing associations and commissions work out a date agreement that will be lived up to.

"The last two racing seasons have seen a falling off in wagering other than at the Northampton Fair which was up 10 per cent in mutuel handle this year with a play of $1,100,000 for six days," said Allen. "There has been a downward trend at all of the major tracks, and this is due to the fact the average person has not the surplus money he had a few years ago. The cost of living has also increased, while it is possible to make purchases of articles which one could not get during the war and right after the war."

"Between Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire there will be almost 400 days of racing this year, while in our state we also will have 200 nights of dog racing. This makes it imperative to work out a program that will make racing not too much of a drain on the public's purse."

"We have done this in dog racing and at the racing at the Fairs. The figures show both of these programs have been very successful this year. I think the way the dates have been allotted has helped."

"There used to be a Labor Day conflict between the Marshfield Fair and Northampton. We eliminated this by Marshfield agreeing to give up Labor Day and then operating for a full week."

Massachusetts Furnishes Betting Money

THE LARGE percentage of the money that is poured through the windows of the New England tracks, with the possible exception of Lincoln Downs, comes from Massachusetts. This was always one of the strong arguments in Rhode Island and in New Hampshire when drives were made against racing. Checkups of number plates and of the passengers on trains from Boston proved this to be true.

These statistics also caused the Massachusetts solons to legalize the turf game. They argued it was silly to ban horse racing here when the residents of this State would merely ride to New Hampshire or to Rhode Island to get rid of their spare money.

SUFFOLK DOWNS has never been a popular race track like Rockingham or Narragansett Park. It has been New England's biggest spot for a racing show. Despite this lack of popularity the track has made millions of dollars and it will continue to do so despite racing wars and such things.

Charles F. Adams and Bruce Wetmore assured the success of Suffolk Downs when they built the track within the 10 cent zone. With railroad prices continuing to be increased Suffolk Downs will be in a better position than ever. It is also unnecessary to get to a railroad station at a particular time to get to Suffolk Downs unless one uses the Boston & Maine Special. The street cars rumble to the outskirts of the track every few minutes.

If 1948 finds an open racing it is loaded.

Dodgers' Success Traced To Holding Cards in Check

Now that everybody except Managers Eddie Dyer of Brooklyn (the latter with tongue in cheek) has conceded the Dodgers, it is easy to understand why the Brooks will in the World Series, according to the Associated Press.

Everything else considered, the Dodgers are World Series bound because they have been able to hold the defending champion Cardinals to a standstill in their 22-game season's series.

Offhand, that may not sound like much, but when one considers that the Brooks have achieved that feat only once in the last 14 years and thereby won a pennant, it becomes a tremendous accomplishment.

Back in 1941, the Dodgers divided 22 games with St. Louis and were rewarded by copping the flag, their first in 21 years. Since then the best they've been able to do against the Cards was win nine games of 22 in each of the '42 and '45 seasons. They dropped 13 of 22 in '42 and lost the pennant by two games. Last year the Cards knocked them off 16 times in 24 engagements and won the flag in an unprecedented playoff.

One of the big reasons why the Cards captured the crown in 1943 and '44 was because they whipped the Brooks 33 times in 44 games during those two years. The last year the Dodgers took a season's series from the Redbirds was way back in 1932 when they won 14 games from St. Louis and lost eight.

Brooklyn holds the edge on every club in the league with the exception of the Cards. They already have taken the season's series from Chicago, Cincinnati, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and hold a 10-8 edge on Boston with four games left to play.

They wound up their season's work with the Reds yesterday by taking the third game of the series 7-3 to sweep the three game set. The win, coupled with the Giants' 7-2 win over the Cards, increased Brooklyn's first place margin over St. Louis to eight and a half games. The Dodgers can clinch the pennant with four victories in their remaining 10 games. Four St. Louis defeats also would do the trick.

Ralph Branca, ace of the Dodgers' pitching staff, went the distance although tagged for a dozen hits and registered his 21st victory of the year. He is now tied with Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell for the most victories in the majors. The Brooks made only six hits off Bucky Walters and Kent Peterson, but made them count. Bruce Edwards' first inning double scored three runs. Gene Hermanski's seventh inning homer added another and Pete Reiser's circuit blow with one on added two more.

The Giants clipped the Redbirds' wings for the third straight time to make their season's record over the Cardinals 13 wins and nine losses. The Giants, by the way, won only seven and lost 13 to the Dodgers. Sid Gordon, with three singles and his 12th home run, paced the Giants' 12 hit attack on Harry Brecheen and company as rookie Ray Poat registered his fourth success against one defeat since joining the Giants last month.

In the only other National League game, Bill Donnelly outpitched Mel Queen to give the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 victory over the Pirates in Pittsburgh. The win moved the Phils out of the cellar while the Bucs dropped in.

Having already clinched the American League pennant, manager Bucky Harris gave most of his Yankee regulars a well deserved rest in their double header.

A seven run rally in the seventh enabled the Athletics to defeat the Cleveland Indians 7-3 in the second game of a doubleheader in Philadelphia and gain a split. The Indians won the opener 5-3. Bob Feller, although hit hard, gained his 19th victory. Joe Gordon slammed a pair of home runs, his 28th and 29th, to help Feller.

'4' MAGIC NUMBER

NEW YORK (AP)—The magic number now is four. That is the number of games the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers need to win or the Cards must lose in order for the Brooks to win the flag. And with 10 more games left on the Brooklyn schedule and 13 for the Cards, the World Series dough is practically laying in the laps of the Brooks.

with the last place St. Louis Browns. With only Tommy Henrich and Phil Kizzuto of the first stringers in the starting lineup, the Yanks whipped the Browns in the opener 8-3 as rookie Dick Starr gained his first major league victory with an eight-hitter. With most of the regulars including Joe DiMaggio back for the second game, the Yanks bowed 8-2. Sam Zosak allowed 10 hits. But five double plays by his mates helped him win his eighth game of the year. The Browns also made three twin killings in the first game.

Although the Senators defeated Detroit 4-1 in a night game at Washington, the Tigers clung to second place a half game ahead of the Red Sox. Early Wynn held

Pesky Runs Hit Streak To 21 Tilts

Perhaps the most interesting feature of today's ball game between the St. Louis Browns and the Red Sox, who now are fighting to get back into second place in the American League, is whether Johnny Pesky can extend his consecutive game hitting streak which has lasted through 21 games.

The Boston shortstop needs only eight hits in the club's remaining 12 games to get 200 hits for the third time in as many major league seasons.

The former Coast League clubhouse boy (he once shined shoes for fellow players like Bobby Doerr) led the American League with 205 hits in his freshman season of 1942.

Last season, his second in the big time after three years of war service, he again led the league with 208 hits.

Pesky batted for .331 in 1942. His 1946 average was .335 and as of this morning his 1947 average is .325.

Pesky got five hits in nine trips yesterday as the Red Sox split a double bill with the Chicago White Sox. Denny Galehouse pitched a 5-0, six hit shutout in the opener in which the home Sox pulled off four double plays. Joe Cronin's crew now has turned in 167 double killings this season.

With Jack Wallacea creaming a Bill Zuber pitch for a four run homer in the ninth, the Chisox won the closer, 8-3.

Today also will be of interest because it marks Sox General Manager Eddie Collins' 41st year in the American League. In 1906 as a youth named "Sullivan," he played shortstop for the Philadelphia Athletics, then—as now—managed by "Mister Mack."

In his 25 years on the active list Eddie played 2826 games for the A's and the Chicago White Sox and compiled an overall .333 batting average while stealing 744 bases.

Left hander Earl Johnson, who has won 11 and lost eight, will pitch the first game today against the Browns' wh Tommy Fine scheduled to hurl the second. Fine has won one and lost two.

They will be opposed by Jack Kramer (10-15) and Bob Muncrief (7-14).

Of the 19 games played between the two teams this season, the Sox have won 13 and the Browns six. A double Boston victory today and a loss for Detroit would put the Sox back into second place a half game ahead of the Tigers.

B'S BUY CATCHER

The Braves have purchased catcher Harry Sullivan from the Raleigh Club of the Carolina League in exchange for three players and cash.

Sullivan will be sent to the Braves Class A farm team, Hartford, in the Eastern League. He's a six-footer and weighs 210 pounds, bats left-handed. This year he batted .391, hit 27 doubles, 13 triples and 12 home runs.

8 More Games For Braves

Billy Southworth and John Quinn raced to St. Louis ahead of the team. Maybe they're looking for another Hopp, or Marlon—for 48—Braves have eight games to play—all with first division clubs. Two games in Brooklyn follow the two night games here...

Braves expect to face right-handed, red-headed Mungie tonight... They have won only three, lost six on this trip to date. On their first western trip they won 10, lost only three.

Duffy Lewis is working on his speech which he will give at the Statler on his "night." If he uses half the gems John Gillooly has been feeding him, he'll outdo Fred Allen... Elliott and Holmes have been hitting well on the road; despite the losing record Elliott is batting .314. "Holmes is the best leadoff hitter in baseball," says Southworth unqualifiedly... Braves are three games behind the Cards, two and a half ahead of the Giants.

Softball Champs Play For Demartis Benefit

A benefit softball game, with all the proceeds to be turned over to Joe Demartis who broke a collar bone recently, will be played between the Sawyer Club of Brighton, Park League champions the past three years, and the Holitzer-Cabot team of Jamaica Plain, tomorrow night at the Fens Stadium, starting at 6 o'clock.

Demartis was a member of the Holitzer-Cabot Club.

B's Duel Cards for Second Place 35

By HUCK FINNEGAN

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—Bill Voiselle, fast-throwing, slow-moving pitcher, will be making attempt No. 3 for his sixth victory in a row tonight when the Braves clash with the Cards under the lights. It is the start of the Braves last desperate drive to wrest second place from the fading Cards, and to keep ahead of the Giants.

Voiselle pitched excellent ball in August, whipping the Phillies on the 29th for his fifth straight victory. He hasn't done well in September, so is determined to make amends. He was chased in a relief trick against the Giants on Labor Day, was chased as a starter by both Phillies and Pittsburgh. If he loses tonight, the Giants will be breathing on the Braves' necks.

"That never will do," drawled the placid Carolinian who takes the heat when the Giants are mentioned, and who cheers every time they lose a game.

Voiselle, recall, was fined $500 by Mel Ott for "grooving" a 2-0 pitch in 1945. It upset him so that he didn't approach his 1944 form. In that war-torn season Voiselle won 21, lost 16 for the Giants, pitched 313 innings, most in the league, fanned 161 against 118 walks. For a first year man, he was sensational. He won his first eight in '45, but after the fine slumped and wound up 14-14. Last year he slipped to 9-15. He was never happier in his life than the day Ott traded him to the Braves for Mort Cooper.

He's been very happy with the Braves. He's pitched better ball than his record indicates. He rejoiced when he whipped the Giants 3-1 at Braves Field. In his last start against the Cards (Aug. 26) he also won 3-1, turning in a neat eight-hitter.

Billy Southworth speaks highly of Voiselle.

"He's been off his feed in only about three starts," says the Braves manager, who secretly hopes Voiselle will develop into his No. 3 pitcher next year behind Spahn and Sain. One thing: Voiselle's control has improved with regular work; he's been passing only one or two a game of late whereas he used to pass five or six when he first joined the Braves.

He broke an ankle when a youth, and it never was properly repaired. As a result he can't run fast. His turtle-like pace once prompted Bob Elliott to say: "Hey, Voiselle, when you reach third base the next time, don't try to score. Just pass the baton to Cooney (third base coach) and let him finish the job."

Voiselle can take it—except from Mel Ott. But he took it like a major on Labor Day when he appeared as relief pitcher in the Polo Grounds.

"I was dying to give it back to them," he says, "but you gotta be a gentleman when you play for Billy, so I took it. I'll take it out on them later from the diamond."

He's a big kid from Ninety-Six, S. C., which his mates say is 96 miles from nowhere.

He started his professional career in the Red Sox chain.

Played with Pesky and Johnson at Rocky Mount, Pellagrini at Canton and Culberson at Scranton. Got as high as Louisville and was sold to Oklahoma City. There the Giants found him. "Wish it had been the Braves," he said.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 17.—Opposing scouts who have followed the Boston Yanks all over this exhibition junket and who are now here in Dallas will know as much about the Yanks' defenses when they arrive home as when they left, for the Boston gridders haven't shown any of the famed Clipper Smith "trick" defenses. He entered here and will remain in a visitor and he told Clipper Smith However, defenses are only part of the picture—you must score to win and Clipper Smith has set today, tomorrow and Thursday aside to work on offense. Faults which cropped up last Sunday will not only be rectified but several new plays will be added.

tered here and will remain in Dallas until they open their season . . . the Yanks are pretty well battered with a series of minor injuries as a result, some of them may not play at all against the Cards Friday night and others will see limited action . . . the championship season starts a week from Monday night against the Giants at Fenway Park—those games count.

Anybody who thinks pro clubs can take it easy in exhibition games should have seen the Yanks-Green Bay clash last Sunday . . . it was one of the roughest football games ever played . . . there were 20 penalties called an 50 more missed . . . not only were several players on both teams hurt, but the Yanks lost Bill Chipley for six weeks with a fractured jaw . . . George Preston Marshall was a visitor and he told Clipper Smith after the game that he was surprised at the Yanks' performance. . . . Marshall insisted that early injuries to keymen, and the fact that the usually dependable Paul Governali was just that bit off, meant the difference.

Packer officials who have now seen the Yanks, Steelers and Giants feel that the Yanks have a better than even chance of whipping both the Giants and the Steelers.

This is home country to Tom Dean, Jim Wright and Red Maley of the Yanks . . . all three hail from Dallas and, needless to say, they are kings for the next few days. John Treadway also hails from Texas, but he is now a Long Island resident and has given up all affiliations except his loyalty to Texas—of course.

NEWARK, Del., Sept. 17 (AP)—The University of Delaware will lug a .31-game unbeaten streak—longest in the nation—onto the 1947 gridiron with Coach Bill Murray fearing back-breaking schedule may sour the Blue Hens' colors for the first time since 1940.

Murray, not looking for setbacks, dropped the three teams which Delaware beat by more than 50 points last season—Anderson-Macon, Drexel and Washington College. In their places he added Maryland, seeking to return to football heights under Jim Tatum, and Washington and Lee to make up an eight-game schedule opening Sept. 27 against Pennsylvania Military College.

"It doesn't figure to be an easy road to hoe," said 39-year-old Murray as he stepped some 55 Huskies through their paces today. Eighteen are lettermen from last year's team that won nine regular season games and then walloped Rollins in the Cigar Bowl. Twenty-eight others have had varsity experience.

Coach Dek Harlow is eagerly awaiting word from the Harvard board of administrators on Chip Gannon's eligibility. As a freshman last season, Gannon was one of the Crimson's outstanding varsity halfbacks.

Constitution Day Hailed Here

Pledge

Loyal citizens of New York city reaffirm their allegiance to the Constitution on its 160th anniversary today in front of the Sub-Treasury building in midtown Manhattan. The nation-wide celebration finds 132,000 Boston schoolchildren making pageants depicting the event.

Dauntless

James A. "Dell" Ryan, of Newton, who was stricken with Infantile paralysis in 1927 and is now a member of Boston University's athletic plant in Weston, watches members of B. U.'s varsity squad work on a 'pusher' he developed. The dauntless Newtonite, who is confined to a wheelchair, has already developed a tackling dummy. He is founder of Newton's twilight league baseball team. Story on Page 38.
